

Four Sample Church Bulletin Announcements—2014

On June 30-July 2, Concordia University Wisconsin and the Society of Creation will host its second creation conference in the Concordia University System under the theme “The Origin of Life: The Improbability of Chance, Mutation, and Natural Selection.” For more information about the conference, visit the Society of Creation’s website at www.SocietyofCreation.org. Registration fee is only $40.

Has the origin of life been explained by the world of science? Are Natural Selection, long eons of time, and mutations sufficient mechanisms to explain how life began? Learn more about the creation-evolution debate by attending “The Origin of Life: The Improbability of Chance, Mutation, and Natural Selection,” a creation conference at Concordia University Wisconsin, 12800 N. Lake Shore Drive, Mequon, WI 53097. For more information, visit the Society of Creation’s website at www.SocietyofCreation.org.

Dr. Kevin Anderson and Mr. Jay Seegert will be the keynote speakers on “The Origin of Life: The Improbability of Chance, Mutation, and Natural Selection” at the second annual creation conference to be held at Concordia University Wisconsin. This three-day conference, June 30-July 2, will also feature Dr. Gary Locklair, a computer science professor at Concordia University Wisconsin, and Dr. Joel Heck, theology professor at Concordia University Texas. Registration fee is $40.00 per person with reduced rates for additional people from the same family or church staff. Visit their website at www.SocietyofCreation.org for more information.

If you have ever wondered how evolutionists try to explain the origin of life, you will want to hear Jay Seegert and Kevin Anderson speak at a creation conference, hosted by Concordia University Wisconsin and sponsored by the CUS Society of Creation. For registration, housing, schedule, and program information, visit the website www.SocietyofCreation.org and click on the Conference link.
